

Thursday, September 20, 2007

Where you write the stories

YourHub.com

BOULDER, ERIE, LAFAYETTE, LOUISVILLE, SUPERIOR

Paws for a Cause to aid Canine Cancer Campaign

Story and photo posted
by Jennifer Wills
YourHub.com user

You and your four-legged friends are invited to Muttropolis Paws for a Cause, a benefit party to support Morris Animal Foundation's Canine Cancer Campaign from 5 to 9 p.m. Sept. 27 at Muttropolis, 1855 29th St., No. 1156, Twenty Ninth Street Mall, Boulder.

Specialty retailer Muttropolis, A Utopia for Pets & Their Parents, and Camp Bow Wow, the nation's premiere franchiser of doggy day and overnight camps, are now partnered with Morris Animal Foundation to help raise awareness and funds for its Canine Cancer Campaign.

Not only is this event a benefit party, but it will be extremely fun and interactive for pets and their parents. Pets will pose for roaming pup-paw-razzis, receive product giveaways and enjoy complimentary refreshments as well as pet massages. Pet parents will be treated to food by Laudiso.

Both Muttropolis and Camp Bow Wow will donate a percentage of the proceeds generated on Sept. 27 to Morris Animal Foundation. Muttropolis is committed to raising at least $3,000 to support one of Morris Animal Foundation's Canine Cancer studies during the next year.

*Jennifer Wills works at Muttropolis' Denver-based public relations agency
GroundFloor Media.*

Emily Harding, an employee at the Boulder Muttropolis, gives extra attention to dog Brie Puzak at the Boulder St. Patrick's Frenchie Meetup at the Boulder Muttropolis in March.

Paws for a Cause

- What: A benefit party to support Morris Animal Foundation's Canine Cancer Campaign
 - When: 5-9 p.m. Sept. 27
 - Where: Muttropolis, 1855 29th St., No. 1156, Boulder
 - Cost/info: Free, but donations are gladly accepted.
- For more information, call 303-545-6888.